WE NOMINATE

Margaretta Jean Barr, the markedly able director of the Joint Free Public Library of Princeton, whose resignation from her post after some 11 years of outstanding service has created consternation within this community. Miss Barr, who can point to a total annual circulation of well over 200,000 volumes, a jump of almost 80,000 in the past six years, said last month to the Library Board of Trustees: "I no longer feel that I am being permitted to do as effective a job as library director as is implicit in the position of library director and that the present stage of development of this library demands use of the full scope of this position."

As Princeton Township and Borough have belatedly moved towards a new public library (with a thoughtfully planned structure on the corner of Witherspoon and Wiggins Streets replacing 18th Century Bainbridge House made available for the past six decades by the University for a token rental of $1.00 a year), Miss Barr has done a superb job. Year after year she and her associates have recorded statistical "highs" and have succeeded in convincing two municipal governments that an antiquated library plant is an anachronism in a community zoned for education and research.

It is probable that the Library's 54-year old director, a native of New Wilmington, Pa., and her staff have more direct contact with the "Princeton Public" than any other single group of municipal employees. The Library today has nearly 14,000 registered users, including some 4,100 youngsters, and these figures disregard the dozens upon dozens of casual visitors who bob in with questions during the 54-hour library week. While Princeton's library-registration is not inordinately high when compared with its ever-mounting population, it does represent incredible usage, for lack of space actually limits the children's department to 25 users at any one time and curtails activity on all levels.

Miss Barr, a librarian who "can never find enough time to read half the things I'd like to read," brought to her Princeton post in the fall of 1953 two decades of varied service together with the willingness to experiment and a sound understanding of a library's mission in community life. With facilities limiting the Library's inventory to some 40,000 volumes, it has been strengthened over the years with the establishment of an unusual Paperbound Exchange Service, permitting book-for-book swaps, and a Home Delivery Service. The latter, combining book selection by a trained librarian with delivery by volunteers, enables the Library to serve "shut-ins" in their homes.

As deeply concerned as she has been with the major problems confronting the Library, Miss Barr has often pointed out that the librarian's first responsibility is supervising the effective use of existing resources. Over the years, the Library's processes have been modified and streamlined in light of know-how, including assignments in municipal, college and private libraries as well as with the Army Library Service and the Veterans' Administration. The daughter of an educator, and a graduate of the University of New Mexico and Emory University, she directed army libraries in World War II and from 1919 until 1953 was librarian at near-by Fort Monmouth.

For thoroughly enjoying her myriad associations with Princeton's "reading public"; for welcoming opportunities for broadening the base of a Library's services to the community; for giving of herself to Princeton and its Library; she is our nominee for

TOWN TALKS TO GOWN
Taxes, Fees, Roads. That delicate and intricate relationship known as "town and gown" made news in Princeton this week.

• Township Committee announced on Monday night that Princeton University had agreed to a new arrangement on tax payments for faculty apartments.

• A few moments later, Committee approved the Zoning Board's variance recommendation for a second faculty apartment on the shore of Lake Carnegie.

• At the same meeting, Committee discussed the proposed ordinance that would reduce building-permit fees to make things easier financially for the big, million-dollar builders. The revised fee scale had been requested by the University.

• And finally, Committee decided to ask the University once again to keep College Road open until the traffic lights can be moved south to the Faculty-Washington intersection.

The most immediate and urgent problem — the July 6 closing of College Road — hinges, as traffic problems always do — upon the State Bureau of Traffic Safety's slow moving approach to almost any matter placed before it.

Deeply concerned about present traffic at College and Washington, and about future traffic at Faculty and Washington once College is closed, the Township wants the University to leave College open until the traffic light can be re-installed at Faculty.

But the state does not just move traffic lights a few hundred feet downstream. Traffic safety officials insist upon making their own surveys to see whether a light is needed at a given intersection.

In this case, the University has already made detailed surveys and so has the Township. Mercer County has, compiled all this data and sent it to the state, and there it waits its turn.

A PRINCETON HIGH FAMILY: Three generations of PHS graduates will be present this Thursday at the high school commencement exercises. Mrs. Paul O. Roediger (center) 361 Nassau, was one of the 33 graduates of the PHS Class of '19. She and her classmates attended high school classes in what is now Nassau Street School. Her daughter, Mrs. Alfred S. Cook (right), 242 Prospect, was one of the 196 seniors in the Class of '43 and Mrs. Cook's daughter, Sandra (left), will receive her diploma Thursday as a member of '64.

"It will be a hazardous intersection, as anyone can see," commented Township engineer Frank Quinby on Monday night.

The University has asked the state to hurry, but has had no assurance that speed records will be broken. Meantime, the University has its own timetable and does not feel it can keep College open beyond July 6. Administrator Joseph R. Nini was asked by Committee on Monday night to write once again asking for continued University cooperation.

Taxes. Under the new Township-University tax agreement, the University will make up, each year, the difference between the amount it pays in school taxes and the cost of educating faculty children in elementary and high school. If the University is more than "paying its way," it will receive a credit against the following year's taxes.

No precise, up-to-date figures are available but in the 1961-62 school year, if the new agreement had been in effect, the University would have to pay the Township about $6,000.

The Township's tax department will determine the amount in school taxes now paid by the University. The secretary of the Board of Education will add up the number of Township faculty children attending elementary schools and the high school, and will divide this number into the amount of money to be raised by the school board through taxation.

Board of Education figures must be ready by August 1 of this year and the University must pay the Township no later than November 15.

ment), so that the second junior faculty unit could be built. (This is the recommendation approved by Committee Monday night.)
For the past year, therefore, John P. Moran and Ricardo Mestres for the University, with their attorneys, the late Henry Stratton and now Frank Reiche, and Township officials with their attorney, Gordon Griffin, have been hammering out the agreement. At one point, President Robert F. Goheen and three University trustees entered the discussions.

"It was always very harmonious," commented Mr. Nini.

Exchange. But the University had something it wanted, too. Engaged in erecting millions of dollars worth of buildings, many of them in the Township, the University found itself paying the Township thousands of dollars in building fees.

And so, a year ago, the University asked the Township to review its fee scale. The proposed ordinance is the result.

During the public hearing Monday night, Henry Frank, 126 Valley Road, said, "It's true that one beneficiary of this new scale will be an educational institution, but big business firms are going to benefit too. Big builders and little builders should be treated alike. After all, a $10,000 building permit fee isn't so much if you're spending $2½ million."
Mr. Green said that the fees, originally designed to cover only the costs of inspection and not to be a source of Township income, had become exorbitant, and beyond mere costs.

Day Schools Benefit. It was decided, upon Mr. Green's motion to amend the ordinance, making the new reduced scale retroactive to January 1, 1964.

(This was a great relief to Princeton Day Schools, whose representative, Homer Zink, then told Committee that he was withdrawing the School's application for an adjustment in building permit fee. The new reduced scale was to take effect next January; however, the Schools cannot wait that long to put up their new buildings. The amendment making the lower fees retroactive to January of this year, saves the Schools between $7,000 and $8,000. The University does not plan any construction in the Township this year.)

Meantime, across the line in that other municipality called Princeton, the Borough is also talking with the University.

Since about 1950, the University has paid the Borough $10,000 yearly "appropriation." But in the years since 1950, the University has removed considerable property from the Borough tax rolls (University Field, all the houses at the dead end of Charlton, and so on), and the Borough wants an increase.

Negotiations are still in the early stages, with Mr. Mestres talking things over with Mayor Henry Patterson and Councilman Ellwood Godfrey.

And it is possible that the University may ask the Borough, too, for a decrease in those building-permit fees.

munity have raised $600 for the memorial garden.

The drive was spearheaded by Mrs. Daniel F. Sullivan and her second grade students, Mrs. David W. Blair, Mrs. Stephen Beach and Mrs. Kempton Hastings.

Sheltered on three sides by wings of the school building, the garden will be a 50-ft. circle of flowering trees and shrubs, selected to attract the birds. In the center will be a sundial. The planting will be done this fall.

PLAN EXTRA BIG BANG

For Tercentenary Fourth. In honor of the New Jersey Tercentenary, special fireworks are planned for the annual July Fourth program at Palmer Stadium, American Legion Post 76 is sponsor.

Nathaniel McKee is program chairman. Dean Iorio of Flemington will prepare and supervise the fireworks. Proceeds of the event will go to the Post's veterans welfare work.

Events scheduled are a musical program at 7:30 p.m., presentation of the colors at dusk, and the fireworks display about 9 p.m.

Refreshments will be available under the stands; cars may park on Fitzpatrick Field.

The First Aid Squad and Fire Department of Princeton will have men on duty at the stadium. The Post reminds residents that it is illegal as well as dangerous to bring fireworks into the stadium.

FLAG PRESENTED

To Choir Members. Members of the Princeton High School Choir were presented Monday with miniature lapel flags and a booklet entitled, "You Are An American," by the Morven Society, Children of the American Revolution.

The CAR had met at the high school for a Flag Day celebration. The choir left Monday for a summer tour of European cities.

1,254 DEGREES GRANTED
At Princeton Commencement, Bachelor, advanced and honorary degrees, 1,254 in all, were conferred at the University's 217th commencement on Tuesday. The ceremonies were held in front of Nassau Hall.

Among the degrees granted were 665 bachelors of arts, 90 bachelors of science in engineering, 58 masters of science in engineering, 25 masters of public affairs, 189 masters of arts; one master of arts in Near Eastern studies; 25 masters of fine arts; 192 doctors of philosophy, and nine honorary degrees.

Among the nine recipients of honorary degrees: James A. Perkins, former Princeton faculty member and now president of Cornell; Kingman Brewster Jr., now president of Yale; and Christian A. Herter, former secretary of state, present special representative for trade negotiations.

All three were awarded honorary LL.D.'s.

Dr. Perkins was cited for his "bond of nearly three decades, formed as student, teacher, and resident of Princeton" and as a man who "tends modern meaning to the foundation of his University, Cornell as an institution where any person can find instruction in any study."

President Brewster's citation read in part: "Strong in leadership, quick in decision, he brings to his post a freshness of view... and the promise of an ever greater future for his ancient university."

"Accomplished and experienced at all levels of government," Mr. Herter was also credited for "placing the dignity of man above the narrow claims of nationalism, promulgating universal peace and combating the suffering of nations."

Others who received honorary degrees at Tuesday's commencement included: Ellisworth Tomkins, executive secretary of the National Association of Secondary School Principals, doctor of letters; Bernard M. W. Knox, Center for Hellenic Studies director, doctor of letters; Francis C. Wood, University of Pennsylvania professor of medicine, doctor of science; Frederick Seitz, National Academy of Sciences president, doctor of science; Ibrahim Madkour, Academy of the Arabic Language secretary general, doctor of letters; and William McChesney Martin Jr., Federal Reserve Board Chairman, doctor of laws.

GRADUATION SET
For Princeton High. More than 360 seniors will receive their diplomas this Thursday at Princeton High School's commencement exercises, to be held at 6:30 p.m., on Harris Field, north of the high school building.

In case of rain, the exercises will be held in the boys' gymnasium. A rain-date is not possible this year because of the opening concert of the New Jersey Tercentenary Festival of music will be given Friday night on the Westminster Choir College campus across the street from the high school.

The complete list of Princeton High School graduates is on page 33.

James Boynton, president of the class of '64, will deliver the address of welcome, Jeffrey Stokes will give the valedictory and Barbara Shore will present the salutatory.

The Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton, of the Second Presbyterian Church, will give the invocation and the Benediction and Graham Rohrer, president of the school board, will give the commencement address.

Dr. Chester Stroup, superintendent of schools for the Borough; Kenneth Michael, principal of the high school and Mr. Rohrer will participate in the awarding of diplomas.

There will be music by the commencement band, but no choral music because the Princeton High School Choir is in Europe.

ALEXANDER TO CLOSE
For Five Days, Alexander Road will be closed from Faculty Road south to the Township line starting at 8 a.m. Monday, opening again at 4:30 p.m. next Friday, June 26, it was announced Monday night at Township Committee.

Frank Quinby, Township engineer, told Committee that the contractors who are realigning Alexander must close the road so they can remove the arched stone culvert and replace it. Cars will use a Faculty-Washington Road detour.

Although Committee was chiefly occupied with the University (See "This is Princeton"), it wrapped up several other matters as well.

Long-delayed improvements on Woodside Lane and Mason Drive will probably begin this week because the Township has obtained a $5,000 judgment against the insurance company that held the performance bond of the defaulting developer of that area.

No Parking, Committee passed the ordinance prohibiting parking on the north side of Terhune and Van Dyke Roads. Also, Committee agreed to modify a sewer agreement made in 1958 with Princeton Research Park to give $750 credit against $4,770 outstanding.

The Township had assessed the corporation in 1958 when the trunk system behind the Princeton Shopping Center was constructed. Later, Princeton Research Park connected the five acres around the former LaVake house, to another sewer system — the Ewing Street extension — and was assessed for that.

Because of the absence of Mayor William Wilson — who was tabled at LaGuardia and unable to reach Princeton in time for the meeting — Committee decided to table its consideration of Borough Council's suggestion about library costs.

Council would like to see the tax-ratio formula applied to all the library's capital costs and not just to those under $5,000.

Robert T. Carey, Hopewell school teacher, was appointed special police officer for the Herrontown Arboretum, serving through the summer until September 4.

Prodded by Miss Helen Fairbanks, who lives at 70 Valley Road and believes that the Valley-Jefferson school crossing should be policed earlier than 8 a.m., Committee decided to explore the whole question of crossing guards before school begins again in the fall.

Acting Mayor Carl Schafer suggested that some of the guards were not as expert in traffic direction as they might be, perhaps because they had no special training, as the regular police officers do.

In executive session, Committee planned to lay out on the table several possible appointees to the new joint recreation commission. The Township will have four men on the new group and the Borough will have four.

The 25 applicants for the job of recreation director have been weeded down to six, according to Administrator Joseph R. Nini. Mayor Wilson and Mr. Nini would like to see the final appointment made

Round-Up

"MONDAY'S STORM was caused by what you might call 'the last blast,'" David M. Ludlum of Princeton's Science Associates told TOWN TOPICS. "It was the final mass of cold Canadian air of the season, starting right down Hudson Bay, coming down here to make contact with a weak low pressure area and creating a squall line."

THE RESULT was a meteorological disturbance of some proportions, mostly in the form of rain, wind, thunder and lightning. In other parts of the county, hailstones fell as large as robin's eggs. Where they struck, sidewalks were too slippery to walk on.

WIND VELOCITY touched 45 miles an hour, Mr. Ludlum reports, with resultant damage in many areas to shrubbery and trees. Power failure struck West Windsor, where some 2,200 homes were without electricity for about a quarter of an hour.

RAINFALL VARIED amazingly, even within a half mile radius. For example, Mr. Ludlum said, the Riverside area received 1.35 inches on Monday but Littlebrook got almost half an inch more—1.91 to be exact. The torrent that struck the immediate countryside in the Littlebrook area represented more than three times the amount of rain that fell during the entire month of May—a parched .63 inches.

DAMAGE AND DANGER was greater in other parts of Central New Jersey than right here in Princeton. In Hopewell Township, Bertram Mickel, 53, of Lee Dan Farms was struck by lightning, knocked unconscious and hospitalized.

IN FLEMINGTON, a mile-square area was endangered for five hours by non-poisonous but explosive gas when a chemical plant was struck. It was not until early Tuesday morning that restoration of power to the plant permitted the gas in the air to be evaporated.

AN AUTOMOBILE owned by Mrs. Charles Peckett of Skillman was demolished when struck by a heavy tree. In the West Trenton area, lightning started minor fires on a lunchette and in the woods near Mountain View Road.

MAJOR REFEET to all was the drop in temperature—at one point so rapid that if you had been watching an outdoor thermometer you would have been able to watch the mercury fall. As the cold front moved in during the late afternoon, the thermometer plummeted from 90 to 66—24 degrees in just ten minutes.

PRINCETON REUNIONS last weekend drew more alumni than in the two previous years, judging from the number is Saturday's Parade, estimates John G. Bradshaw, alumni secretary. Total number of marchers (and shamblers) exceeded 5,000—not including innumerable offspring. FIRST PRIZE for ugliest costume would have been awarded to the youngest class in the parade, 1964. The costume, a baggy night-shirt something of a cross between a muu-muu, a droopy T-shirt and a bargain counter sheath. QUITE A CONTRAST in appearance between 1964 and the senior classes in P-grades of yore. Standard uniform used to be: white trousers, dark jackets, straw hats and other immaculate accessories.

REUNIONS ALSO produced more jazz combos at the different class headquarters than have been here in many a year. The place was a-swarm with the musically great, the near-great and the will-be-great. All had two characteristics in common: noisy enthusiasm and inexhaustible energy.

BEER, of course, is the traditional reunion beverage. But, according to experts, the Class of 1954 set an untraditional, unenviable record in consumption of the stuff. Beer was flowing so fast at '54 headquarters in Henry Court that the taps were freezing up. Brewery rep said he had never seen it happen before.

ACCORDING TO POLICE, '54 used up 75 half barrels, 49 of them on Saturday night. That means 22,500 8-oz. glasses in all, 17,500 on Saturday night.

THERE'S A postage stamp which came out on Monday commemorating New Jersey's 300th. Designed by Douglas Allen of Metuchen, it shows Philip Carteret, founder of El-

We were told that a report by the National Safety Council shows that the teenager who excels in sports or studies is seldom a "cowboy driver." An acquaintance remarked, "Such information ought to get widespread publicity... everyone should recognize that wild driving is a mark of inferiority... that it shows a lack of responsibility and maturity, as well as a lower I. Q." Here is another quote from a National Safety Council booklet. "If you're a girl, write off the character who tries to impress you by reckless driving... risking your neck and your pretty face to indulge his egotism. Suppose he ends up throwing you through the windshield!" Don't you agree it's everybody's duty to tell these facts over and over again? The mercury's 50,
And how old are YOU?

Ninety on Monday, 50 on Tuesday... what's going on around here? The answer, apparently, is that Monday's rather violent storm was followed by a somewhat violent change in the temperature.

After the mid-week dip, the thermometer will move upwards again—enough so that by Friday or Saturday, showers will be a possibility. There'll be something new on Sunday... summer begins at 4:57 that morning.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think husbands and wives should go on separate vacations?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Mrs. John Perna, 39 Humbert Street, housewife: I don't think you shouldn't go on separate vacations but I think it's nice if you can go together. My husband works such long hours that I don't get to see him that much. But if you can't go together, it's better to go by yourself than not at all.

Arnold Both, 14 Vandeventer, cartoonist: Yes. Not necessarily all the time but occasionally. It just seems to work out well that way. It's a period of renewal, so to speak. Also you're not missing all the things you think you're missing by being married.

Mrs. Emerson James, Frank lin Park, secretary for Van Nostrand Co.: No, I don't think so. I think it's too easy to get into trouble.

Tony Brazill, Hillsborough, president Travelex, travel agency at 195 Nassau Street: Yes, I support I do. But in addition to separate vacations they should also have at least one vacation together a year. It's kind of nice though for a husband to get away for a few days for golf or to Bermuda, you know.

Mrs. William Sholander, 67 Jefferson Road, housewife: No, I don't. All year round you're working together. I think you should have a vacation together when you can enjoy each other without the usual responsibilities and without the usual routine of everyday living.

Robert L. Sullivan, 100 Stockton Street, Princeton Seminary student: No, I don't. I would say, for the continuity of the family, it is far better that husbands and wives have their vacations together. It's possible for them to get to know each other better at a time when their other interests and time commitments are less pressing. I would also say when you love a person very much there is a desire to share something that is exciting with your mate, an attitude you share not only during vacation time but all through the year. There's more enjoyment out of sharing something with somebody than to savour it just yourself.

Mrs. Charles M. Finch, 205 Witherspoon Street, housewife: No, I don't. Of course I'm speaking as a young wife but I really couldn't imagine them wanting to and I think very young couples, who aren't able at first to afford a vacation, spend a good deal of their time dreaming where they would like to go together later on.

John Grey, Las Vegas, Nev., cook: It's an idea; it's a good idea. I was married twice. Maybe that's what I should have done.

Mrs. George Barry, 280 Nassau Street, housewife: No, I do not think they should. I feel if a husband or wife has a chance, aside from their normal vacation, to go away for a few days there's nothing wrong with that. Either one. But THE regular, yearly, family vacation should be shared.

Mrs. Linda Simon, Hibben Apartments, housewife: No, I don't believe in them. I don't enjoy myself without my husband.

Roger Thompson, Hopewell, research assistant, Department of Psychology, Princeton University: No, I feel that husbands and wives should work together and play together.

Mrs. M. J. Closterman, 15 Woodside Lane, housewife: No. We don't have enough time together as it is.

Clinton Crossley, Nassau Street, manager of P.J.'s Pancake House: I think that's strictly up to the husband and wife. Occasionally it would be all right; probably they would find relief from each other.

Mrs. Joseph Kokesb, 3 Jill Lane, Nassau Estates, teacher: Definitely not. I don't see my husband that much during the year. We enjoy taking family vacations.

Mrs. Claire Parsells, 32 Jefferson Road, housewife: It depends on the husband and wife. I think it's a good idea to a certain extent — if there are no children or if they are taken care of. If the husbands wants to fish and the wife doesn't, there is no sense in dragging her along. But if their interests are the same, if they both like to travel, then, yes, I think it all depends on their individual interests.

Wintrop Risk, Zion, (Mont- gomery Township) graduate student, physics: It depends on the circumstances. There are times when husbands and wives ought to get away from each other and it might be a good idea to take separate vacations. And, again, there are times when they should take it together. It don't think you can make any blanket statements.

THE ONE ON THE LEFT HAS A PURPLE GARTER: A high-spirited can-can explodes after the second act of "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," playing at Murray Theatre on the next two Friday and Saturday nights. The can-can scene is done outside in the warm summer breeze while the audience sips (root) beer by candlelight. All part of the Community Players' annual 19th-century-style spring offering. (Staff Photo)

News Of The THEATRES

'TIS BUT A DROP
"Bar-room" Opens. History may well record that the wildest case of delirium tremens in Mercer County medical history ran its course on three successive 1964 week-ends up and down the aisles of Murray Theatre on the campus of Princeton University. Yes, boys and girls, it's "Ten Nights in a Bar-room," Community Players' toast to the temperance movement. Each spring, the Players give Princeton audiences a chance to see an old-fashioned mellerdrammer in the classic manner, with entertainment in between the acts and a sober moral at the final curtain. "Ten Nights" will play this Friday and Saturday and next Friday and Saturday at Murray Theatre, with a prompt curtain at 8:30 p.m. Tickets at the box office and at Male's Book Shop.

The morality play is in three acts, which gives the audience two pleasant intermissions in the courtyard of Murray-Dodge. Here the Players have set up a small stage and little tables with candles. Strolling waiters appear with free beer (well, so it's root beer: it's cold, Hires and free.) Two young men with guitar sing plaintively from the little stage, and during the second intermission, a covey of can-can girls burst into view with the flourish of a garter and a great "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay."

Music, in fact, plays quite a role in this production, as you will learn first off. Before things get started, you are handed the lyrics to five temperance songs and all we can say is, you will probably sing them best after a few good, stiff rehearsals at home.

Curtain! And now for the play, as the saying goes. Director Greenville Cuyler offers us a homily on the evils of drink; how it led to the downfall of a good New England miller and his son, drove his wife to an early grave, contributed to the demise of an insufferably angelic little girl, gave her father splendid delirium tremens (with snakes) and otherwise messed things up.

Joe Morgan, the Drunkard himself, is played by Thomas Queenan, who is without question our favorite Princeton actor of the year. Those d.t.s! The vow at the daughter's death-bed.

Indeed, the first sight of the Drunkard as he peers, wild of eye, from beneath a table in the bar-room! What this man could do with Lear!

As his anguished wife, Helen Van Zandt displays with precision all the classic gestures of 19th-century melodrama. (In fact, hers is probably the purest of all the performances, if you want to be finicky about it.) Derry Light as the Drunkard's daughter milks her death-bed scene for every drop. We liked the part when Mother says, "You aren't going to die!" and Derry the Daughter replies, "Oh, yes I am!" in exactly the tone of a defiant 12-year-old determined to go bowling.

Ralph Denton does well as both Greek Chorus and Mitch Miller, editorializing on events as they turn, and leading the Cedarville Temperance and Meditation Band & Chorus in "Tis but a drop, the father

MARY, MARY
How Does Your Garden?
Having worn a hole in our green thumb, we stopped at Lucar Hardware, Princeton Junction, to pick up a new pair of garden gloves the other day, and we came away not only wearing new garden gloves, but loaded for the kill as well. We had been aware for some time that other living things besides ourselves were busily at work in the garden, and we don't mean the family teenager. In fact, the back yard had become a kind of entomologist's paradise, but all this is now past, or will be past very soon in the future.

(Disciples of the late and gifted Rachel Carson are invited to skip the next few paragraphs of "It's New to Us" and turn, temporarily of course, to other pages of TOWN TOPICS. We have a particularly fine church section this week. Or sports, perhaps?)

Anyhow, we brought back from Lucar a truly lethal collection, redeemed from totally destructive intent only by the presence of a fertilizer or two.

To start with, there is a rose spray kit containing both liquid fertilizer (8-12-4) and rose dust. Then we bought a rose-and-flower bomb just to make sure.

Tomato - vegetable dust was next on the list, and as a side dish, we bought some liquid tomato food (tomato juice?) with a 12-6-6 ratio. That's ni-

WHAT A GUN! "Johnny Seven," at Zieder's, is the gun that does everything but make peanut-butter sandwiches. Flory Toto demonstrates. (Staff Photo)

(roge-n-phosphorus-potash, in borrowed by the gardener next case you mislaid "House and Garden.")

For the Japanese beetles, or against them if you prefer, we are now armed with "Sevin," which is also good for 17-year locusts. "Sevin" kills things that are impervious to 2 4 D, and lasts much longer than melathion. The Velck oil spray against red spiders, scale insects and mealybugs can pick up where everything else leaves off.

And speaking of leaves... here's Weed-B-Gon, with 2 4 D and 2 4 5 T, and to accommodate them all, Rockland's half-gallon sprayer for only $2.98. (Lucar is enthusiastic about this sprayer — it's almost indestructible.)

Most of the insecticides and herbicides and fertilizers at Lucar come from the Ortho people, who have been respected for quality products ever since the first Japanese beetle flew in from Tokyo. Ortho's spray, with a self-confident four-year guarantee, attaches to your garden hose, perhaps the fine nylon one you bought from Lucar at $6.95 for 50 feet, or the budget nylon one for $4.95.

We say "nylon" in describing these hoses, but actually we mean that they are nylon-reinforced. The price difference refers to the amount of nylon used in re-inforcement. Incidentally, the green - on - green re-inforcement makes the hose look like a particularly seductive snake in the grass.

The Nelson company has Dial-a-rain, "The sprinkler with a heart," that swings slowly back, spraying your lawn with a languid wrist-like motion. You dial whether it sprays from one side, both sides or just from the middle. $13.95.

Need to fill out your garden tool shed? Lucar has the Ames line of tools, designed for edging, spading, raking, hoeing, cultivating and being said, and gave it to his son." Strong men wept the night we were there.

Garrison Ellis has a nicely whittled New England accent as he pours out the Drunkard's ten-cent shot of whiskey. Irving Van Zandt (Harvey Green, A Gambler); Trevor Owens (A Yankee Tippler); Philip Paul (Willie Hammond, the Squire's Son); Joylon Sproves (Frank Slade, the Landlord's Son) and Sherry Richardson (A Sentimental Yankee Girl) all perform with commendable dedication.

Mr. Cuyler (the director: see above) has introduced some delightful business into his production. We won't spoil his fun by telling you about it, but we think you ought to know that changing the scenery is almost the best part of the show.

Only one sour note: they used to say "Don't shoot the piano player, boys; he's doing the best he can." Maybe this one is, but we'll bet there's somebody who can do it better. The ragged playing is inexcusable.

A production like this depends, almost half, on the mood and spirit of the audience. We suggest a large party of close friends, pleasantly lubricated ahead of time, uninhibited enough to sing good and loud, to cheer on the Drunkard as he wrestles with those snakes and to applaud with vigor the garter display at second intermission. It's good fun: go and enjoy yourself.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE

The Chalk Garden (through Tuesday) is a highly sentimental, but utterly charming film. It bears a fairly close resemblance to "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and even to "Black Beauty" — but the astonishing thing about it is that its rose-colored charm is irresistible.

In the play version of "Garden," attention was centered on a collection of oddball, unlikeable adults: an autocratic old mistress of a magnificent country place in the Sussex downs, her bitchy multi-married daughter and an aging judge who had once been her over-the-garden-wall lover. It also presented an eccentric butler, and a mysterious, grim young hiddy who served as keeper of the old despot's unpleasant teen-age granddaughter.

In the movie, the focus of attention has been put on this granddaughter, impeccably acted by Hayley Mills, and on the emotional upset which her unhealthy though superficially attractive surroundings have caused. It's a convincing, involving and altogether sympathetic account of a child trapped in a mixed up menage from which there is apparently no exit.

The entire cast is splendid. As the cold tyrant, Dame Edith Evans is faultless. John Mills, Hayley's father, as the butler and Felix Aylmer as the judge also act at the top of their not inconsiderable skills. "Chalk Garden" is a fine movie.

THE GARDEN

The World of Henry Orient (through Tuesday) is about an all-thumbs avant-garde pianist and aging Casanova from Brooklyn whose path is crossed and whose love-life is crossed up by two adoring adolescents from a girl's finishing school. Henry is Peter Sellers at his best. The two girls are newcomers Tippy Walker and Merrie Spaeth — painfully young and pathetic and funny.

The film is a remake of "Junior Miss," skillfully updated and polished by Nunnally Johnson and Nora Johnson, pere et fille. And Sellers and his two young adorers make the most of it.

The girls make New York their playground, its grown-ups their playthings and their share of the film an engaging and amusing experience. It's a bright, disarming comedy.

FROM THE GREEN ROOM
Costumes to Be Displayed
Costumes and mementoes of past productions of The Pennington Players will be exhibited in the Players' booth at the Hopewell Township Tercentenary Celebration this Saturday.

The Celebration will be held at the new Hopewell Township

Municipal Building, Pennington-Washington Crossing Road and Scotch Road. The Pennington Players' booth will be open from noon to 9 p.m.

Founded 14 years ago, the Pennington Players have produced a wide variety of plays for both young and adult audiences. Later this summer, they will give Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" at the open air amphitheatre, Washington Crossing State Park.

"BROADWAY" REVIVED

At New Hope. The 1926 Broadway hit, "Broadway," is now in its second week at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, with Merv Griffin as the small-time actor in the prohibition night-club.

"Broadway" will play through Saturday, June 27, evenings at 8:30 and Wednesday and Saturday matinees at 2. "A Perfect Frenzy," a new comedy, will follow on June 29.

Merv Griffin has added songs and dances of his own to the George Abbott-Philip Dunne comedy. "Broadway" takes place in a room off the main dining-room of the prohibition night-club.

Jackie Bertell heads Mr. Griffin's supporting company, which also includes Michael Fairman, Cele McLaughlin, Dermot McNamara, Maureen Reynolds, Rhoda Carol, Barbara Lucas, Lela Anderson, William Cain, Al Seibert, Lloyd Hubbard, Rik Colitti, Karl Fredericks and Kay Frazier. Francis Ballard is the director.

"KISS ME, KATE!"

It's "Too Darn Hot." "Another opening, Another Show," says the enterainers in "Kiss Me, Kate," who are about to present a performance of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew."

Cole Porter's play-within-a-play based on Shakespeare's comedy, will run for a week at the Lambertville Music Circus starting next Tuesday. The final performance will be given Sunday, with "No Strings" opening on Tuesday.

"Kiss Me, Kate" has one of Porter's most tuneful scores, including classics like "Too Darn Hot," "Why Can't You Behave?" "So In Love," "Always True to You in My Fashion," "Wonderbar" and "Another Opening, Another Show."

Starring at the Music Circus will be Jack Washburn, Marthe Errolle, Luba Lisa and Boh Roman. Louis Macmillan will direct.

It's New To Us
made in a lovely shade of light blue, especially for ladies lost in a fog. Comes in dark green or baby's blue for women, also, but that blue...
We should have started off with something for Daddy. Father's Day being so imminent, but Daddy already has a London Fog. This year we're getting him a bright red-terry shave coat trimmed in navy to wear on Sunday mornings. Weekday mornings, he'll wear the navy shave coat trimmed in red. Each: $6.95.

Palm Beach, a brand popular in grand-dad's day, is still on the Harry Ballot racks, in a pleasing light blue jacket, an off-white (or "Palm-Beach") jacket and suits in dark greys, browns and greens, and the two light shades of blue and white. Jackets: $37.50. Suits: $45.

Golden dacron and wool has been used for a jacket which is almost a four-seasons garment. With its small fleck of brown, it would be perfect for autumn, and with its cheerful color and sporting cut, it is just as good for summer. It has a flap patch pocket and a nubbled, knen-like fabric.

A maroon, navy or light blue jacket comes in something called "mataya weave," resembling a tropical silk. "Cricket cloth," turns out to be our old friend seersucker, of all people! The sports shirt involved is a button-down in red, blue or brown stripes. Banlons these days are deep scarlet, deep green, blue, tan, gold — ever know a man who had too many?

LOOK WHO'S HERE!
(Was He Ever Away?) In Zinder's not long ago to look over the new toys we found an old, old friend. It's the Frisbee, never really departed, but only on sabbatical. Recent TV commercials have pointed out the virtues of the Frisbee to a new generation, and now the toy shops can't spin them out fast enough.

A wonderful guest present to a hostess' child: flat enough to pack easily, only $8c, and any child who has one can always use another.)

On the "new" side, Zinder's is showing — well, it's probably best to call it a "gun," although it does everything but sail Frisbees. For $9.97, you get: a grenade launcher, armor-piercing shell, anti-tank rocket, retractable tri-pod, repeating rifle, automatic pistol, tommy gun. All in one big, gun-looking sort of cannon. It's unbreakable plastic. Take cover, maw!

Gentler members of the family will turn to the new ring that blows six-foot soap bubbles, if you can believe Mr. Zinder. Using regular old bubble-mix (liquid Vel, or some such) poured into an eight-inch ring on a tray, this delightful toy produces a bubble as big as your skill in waving it through the air, 79c. Solution is 19c for a refill.

For the inevitable day when it's too hot outside, lets "Slalom" inside. "Slalom" looks like a xylophone standing on its end, except that the wooden bars are even in length. A backboard is behind. You start a ball-bearing rolling to the right along the first wooden bar at the top, and you try to catch the bearing on the second wooden bar, rolling it left, and dropping it carefully to the third wooden bar, and so on to the bottom.

Can you do it without spilling the ball-bearing all the way to the bottom? Neither can we, but we plan to try again.

Little girls, meanwhile, have been playing with Ken's friend, Allan, fair-haired in contrast to the dark Ken, and conveniently scaled to wear all the doll clothes assembled for Ken. The white bed with its pink ruffled canopy and the matching dressing table, come with Penny's pajamas. Sweater and jumper come with a school-room set. After a bit, you have a house, school and even beauty parlor, and the clothes to wear in each one.

Littlest ones are chugging around on the "Creative

Wham! Bam! Zowie!
That ferocious game known as ping-pong takes on the aspects of a cakewalk when it's played on a new table-tennis-table at Zinder's.

The table, strictly regulation, is only 16 inches wide and 32 inches long. It has a net, two paddles and regular ping-pong balls, and it invites all ping-pong players to absolute disaster.

Fast nerves, slams and all kinds of tricky plays are quite possible on the little table, but it takes practice, friend, practice. Play on a table or on the ground. $4.97.

Coaster," a wooden block-box about 20 inches long with a sturdy seat, a steering wheel with beeping horn, and a collection of unbreakable plastic blocks with holes and matching dowels. $6.19.

For the real pros, the over-21 members of the family who are serious about games, Zinder's likes "Broker," for $5.95. The stock-market game is simple or infinitely complex, depending on who's playing, and Mr. Zinder made $53,000 one night starting only from his original $100. Maybe he'll deal you in.

Breakfast call! . . . Wake up the day with a hearty breakfast of Viedt's . . . fresh, country eggs . . . Scotch kippers . . . steaming English muffins with melting country butter . . . fragrant, hot coffee. You'll be glad you did.

Facts You Should Know About Oriental Rugs

SYMBOLS IN ORIENTAL RUG MOTIFS
There are many enchanting emblems hidden in your Oriental rugs that could be interesting conversation pieces among friends, if only one takes time to investigate.

A popular symbol is the solar disk or wheel, representing the sun. In Oriental rugs it appears in the form of a medallion or the eight and sixteen pointed star in the center of the field decorated with different motifs. Sun — the symbol of deity, eternity and perfection and the source of all light and purity.

DRAGONS IN THE RAIN: That splendidly writhing dragon (it scared the millions off some of the toddler spectators) won for the class of '54 the coveted Class of '45 prize for the best P-rade entry in Saturday's Alumni P-rade. Intermittent rain didn't dampen things much; at least, it wasn't enough to float away '59's pirate ship and it certainly wasn't enough to keep away the spectators, some of whom just put up the umbrella and took it as it came. THEY LIKE SCRANTON

Committee Formed. A Scranton for President committee has been formed in Princeton. The new organization will promote the name of Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania among Republicans in the Princeton area, urging them to pass their enthusiasm along to convention delegates.

Members are William W. Augustine, who has been chosen finance chairman for the group; Mrs. Lisa Lesher, secretary; John K. Lee and Hans K. Sander, co-chairmen for Princeton Township; Arthur Morgan, chairman for Princeton Borough; Mrs. Paul Crawford, chairman for Hopewell Township and Mrs. Steven Sinding, chairman for Pennington.

Bruce Schraffer is Mercer

County Chairman. Mrs. James M. Gatling of Princeton is secretary of the New Jersey "Scranton for President" Committee.

"We feel that the time has come to state publicly certain political facts," said Mrs. Gatling in announcing the formation of the Princeton Committee. "The Republican party is split — the results in the California primary drastically demonstrated the cleavage within the party — because for the first time in many years, the party has an abundance of strong candidates. When that happens, differences of opinion within the party are exaggerated, and this leads to intra-party fights."

Mrs. Gatling said that in order to win in November, the party must unite, and she said that her group is convinced that Governor Scranton is the man to do the job.

"Governor Scranton united the Republican party in his own congressional district and in his own state," she said. "He is a proven vote-getter and a proven party professional who understands how to work with the party's grass-roots organizations."

AUTOMATION ADVANCES

Push-Button Calling Coming. Another device has been added to the push-button world with the announcement from the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. that push-button calling will be introduced to the Princeton area on June 29.

The new service, called Touch-Tone, will enable callers to tap out their numbers on push buttons instead of spinning the conventional dial. Extensive field tests have proved that pushing buttons is faster than dialing.

There is an initial charge of $5 for conversion of residence service, including all extensions, plus an additional monthly charge of $1.50 per line. Business rates are somewhat higher.

Within the next few years, Touch-Tone service will be introduced gradually throughout the state. Extensive changes are required in central office equipment before Touch-Tone can be offered.

The new telephones have ten push buttons arranged in rows of three with the "O-Operator" button centered beneath. Each button has the same number and letter combination as the corresponding hole on the rotary dial.

Central offices which offer Touch-Tone will continue to offer conventional dialing service as well. And if you have been wondering about the difference in the dial tone, it was changed on May 16 to accommodate the new Touch-Tone service.

OUR MAN IN SPOLETO: And Budapest and Cheltenham. As the Princeton High School Choir tours the musical high spots of Europe during the next few weeks, choir member Patricia Brackney will send back reports of choir activity to TOWN TOPICS, Pal graduates with the class of '64, but will be in Rome with the choir on Graduation Day. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Brackney, 305 Dadds Lane. (Staff Photo)

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Now that the frantic activity has subsided, we of the Valley Road-Community Park Parent-Teacher Association wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many people throughout the greater Princeton area and even as far away as Indiana who has responded and contributed so magnificently and so unselfishly in our recent book drive to aid the students of Appalachia and the New Townschool library for American Indians in North Dakota. Specifically, we wish to express our thanks to the Princeton and Trenton newspapers for their excellent news coverage; to the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, the New York Times, and the Princeton and national radio stations. A most heartfelt thanks goes out to McGraw-Hill publishing company of Hightstown, who packaged all the books and who shipped upwards of 400 books to North Dakota for use in the Mandaree school.

We also wish to thank the Childcraft Juvenile furniture company for transporting the 4,000 volumes to Appalachian students. For their long hours of activity spent in this behalf we thank the student council of both schools, David Hogenauer, and Mrs. Barbara Lorber, as well as principals Eugene Bhlinger and John Voltekel. To the 14 families who housed students who performed with the Berea College Country dancers, "thank you" for your hospitality. We send our great appreciation to Bryn Bawr alumnae who donated 350 books from their drive to this effort.

Benefit Show Successful.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
On behalf of the Auxiliary Board of the Child Guidance Center, I would like to express my gratitude to you for the publicity you gave our fashion show held at the Princeton Inn. It was very successful, and our thanks go to you for helping us to make it so.

School Policy Clarified.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Your recent story on the use of parents as teachers aides in the Princeton Township Schools illustrates rather clearly the manner in which mothers can assist the classroom teacher. Within the limitations of newspaper space your article gave a comprehensive view of the program.

It is with regret that I must write to ask for clarification on several items. Since it was Mrs. Shorter who participated in the interview with your reporter, the quotations attributed to Mrs. Breth came from Mrs. Shorter, not Mrs. Breth.

Secondly, Mrs. Shorter's reference to a class trip should be modified to show that the trip would be cancelled if the regular teacher is absent on the day the trip is scheduled. Finally, it is the policy of the teacher aide program to permit these people to assist on a class trip, but not to serve as a substitute for a regular teacher.

I know it is difficult to include every detail of school policy and procedures in a feature article and I hope this letter will not affect the overall impression of the story. Thank you for your continuing interest in our school system and your willingness to present a school's story to the public.

JOHN A WOLFEIL
Acting Superintendent of Schools

Mrs. Breth in Charge.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I greatly enjoyed the feature story on the school aide program, TOWN TOPICS, June 4, 1964.

I do think, though, that the story does not sufficiently portray the unstinting efforts and accomplishments of Mrs. James Breth, with whom I have had the pleasure of being associated.

There is one inaccuracy in the story which I should like to correct — Mrs. Breth has been present at, and in charge of, each of the field trips of her class which I attended as an aide, and I have never had the full responsibility for her class.

"Valuable Assistance."

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Lawrence Township Board of Education wishes to express its thanks to Town Topics for the valuable assistance in reporting the planning of our new senior high school.

We also extend congratulations for the professional and objective manner in which you informed the public regarding the progress of the senior high school proposal. As you know, the referendum was favorable, and we feel your organization played an important part in helping us achieve our goal — meeting the educational needs of the children of Lawrence Township.

Again, many thanks for the civic services you rendered in reporting the educational plans of our community.

MAN APPARENT SUICIDE

Had Been Visiting Here. The body of Harold M. Reynolds, 48, was found Thursday in his closed automobile back of an empty farmhouse near Clarks-ville. According to authorities, Mr. Reynolds had been dead for several days.

State police at the Princeton headquarters said that Mr. Reynolds apparently committed suicide by piping exhaust fumes into his car. He left a note dated June 3.

Mr. Reynolds had a mail-box number at Princeton Junction as an address, but State Trooper Eric Lehman said that Mr. Reynolds had recently been visiting at a home on Rosedale Road. Further investigation revealed that Mr. Reynolds had stayed in Princeton for a period of three days but had left at least two weeks previous. The body was found by Anthony Vaccaro, 44, of Clarks-ville, while he was inspecting the condition of his soybean crop.

BUFFET TO BE HELD

At Rosedale Chapel. Rosedale Chapel's traditional strawberry festival featuring a baked ham buffet, as well as strawberries and ice cream, will be held Saturday from 5

Compulsory Chapel Ends

Compulsory chapel attendance, a Princeton University regulation hotly debated for more than three decades, has been discontinued by the Board of Trustees.

Modified through the years, the rule most recently has required freshmen to attend religious services for one half the number of weeks in the academic year. It was rescinded Monday, with the announcement:

"After intensive examination of all the factors, the members of the Trustees Committee on Student-Life came to the conclusion that the elimination of compulsory church attendance by freshmen is in the best interest of fostering healthy religious life on the campus."

(to 7:30 at the Chapel on Carter Road.

Also included on the menu are baked beans, succotash, tossed salad, cottage cheese, applesauce, pickles, olives, rolls and butter, with a choice of iced tea, coffee, or milk for children. Strawberries and ice cream will follow for dessert. The charge is $2 for adults, $1 for children under 12.

Mrs. Harold Tindall is chairman of the food committee, assisted by Mrs. Dorothy Caccavio, Mrs. Ralph Snedeker, Miss Annabelle Hawk, Miss Ruth Stout, Mrs. E. C. Young and Mrs. S. S. Rizo. The dining room committee will be headed by Mrs. Edward Faroe, assisted by Mrs. H. G. Hasenkamp, Mrs. Gaius Mount and Mrs. Dwight Edwards.

TO FETE PRINCIPAL

Of Harborton School. Members of the Harborton community will honor retiring principal Frank G. Carver at an open house this Sunday from 2 to 6 at the school.

A teacher for 43 years, Mr. Carver has been at Harborton for the past 40 years. He recalls his first year as a teacher, at the Baptisttown School, where he taught 63 pupils, served as counselor and tended the fires. He looks ahead "to doing as he pleases."

All former pupils and friends of Mr. Carver are invited to attend the open house.

ACCIDENT REPORT

Cyclist Hits Car. Patrick Kahny, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Kahny, 271 Walnut Lane, was slightly injured Friday afternoon when his bicycle struck the side of a car at the intersection of Walnut Lane and Guyot Avenue.

The driver, Eileen M. White, 17, of Cranbury, told Township Police that as she was driving on Walnut Lane, the left side of her car was struck by a cyclist emerging from Guyot Avenue. Young Patrick was treated by the family doctor for an abrasion of his right arm.

The following evening, two motorcycles collided on Faculty Road.

Austin B. Macauley, 20, 188 N. Harrison Street, and Christopher E. Wilson, 24, 138 Patton Avenue, both riding identical 1963 BSA motorcycles, collided when Macauley slowed to turn into a gravel pathway. Mr. Wilson received abrasions of his face, arm and legs; Mr. Macauley was uninjured.

PAPER DRIVE SET

To Benefit Alaskan Y. The Princeton YMCA Junior Leaders will sponsor a paper drive Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. to benefit the Alaskan YMCA.

Members of the club will pick up tied bundles of newspapers and magazines if the Y office is notified Thursday and Friday or Saturday before 10. Jewel B. Wright III is president of the organization.

DIVE IN!

YWCA Has Summer Plans. Swimming, golf, sailing, tennis and a special membership meeting will launch the YWCA into summer. The meeting will be held next Monday at the YWCA at 8 p.m., preceded by a pot-luck supper at 6.

Tiger Town Teens, open to all high-school students in the Princeton community, have scheduled Open Houses for June 27 and July 11, a trip to the World's Fair, a beach party and a picnic.

Swimmers are invited to a number of classes, graded for everyone from beginners to senior life-savers. Both junior and senior life-saving will be offered in the Y's summer program.

Instructors will test swimmers who are in the first through eighth grades to determine placement in the proper swimming class. There will be two four-week swim sessions, and girls who attend for the full eight weeks will be given a special rate. Red Cross certificate tests will be awarded at the end of the sessions.

"Swim and Slim." Women may join a "swim-and-slim" class Wednesday and Friday mornings at 9:30 at an outdoor pool. If it rains, make-up classes will be scheduled. The class is designed to help women improve their swim strokes as well as their figures. Registration for swimming will be held on Monday, June 29 from 8 to 10 p.m. and on Tuesday, June 30, and Wednesday, July 1 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the "Y" office.

Girls' tennis classes have been scheduled in three-week sessions for elementary school beginners on up the ladder to advanced classes for women of any age. Several women's classes will be held in the evenings.

Paul Walstad, Douglas Walson and Robert Anderson will leave Sunday for a week of training in government and politics. Lectures by business and professional men are a feature of the program. A representative will be formed.

The dormitories are divided into cities, counties and states, and representatives are elected. Mercer County has twice elected a Boys' State governor.

WORKCAMP NEEDS HELP

Teens Sought. Boys and girls in high school and college will be signed up during the next week for a workcamp in Cranbury.

Cranbury Associates, an organization which is helping to relocate families who have been living in sub-standard homes, needs young volunteers to help in the building of new houses, do simple carpentry and act as odd-job men.

The "camp" will run from June 29 through July 17. 95 Morris Ave., Cranbury, N.J. 08512. For more information, call Barbara G. Schoenberg, 37, 241 Dods Lane, was fined.

FOUR ARE FINED

In Court in Township Court last week, Magistrate James S. Hill fined John A. Ordway, 31, Nassau Inn, $30 for careless driving. For passing a school bus, Barbara G. Schoenberg, 37, 241 Dods Lane, was fined.

MUSIC In Princeton

MUSIC!

Festival This Friday. With a gala opening concert featuring Byron Janis and the Prokofiev Third Piano Concerto, the New Jersey Tercentenary Festival of Music will open this Friday at 8:30 in the Festival of Music Pavilion on the campus of Westminster Choir College.

In addition to the Prokofiev work, the first concert will offer Roy Harris' Third Symphony and Beethoven's "Leonore" Overture Number Three. The program will be repeated this Sunday.

This Saturday, the new Concert Orchestra of New Jersey will make its bow. Like the Festival Orchestra which will perform on Friday and Sunday nights, the new Concert Orchestra will be under the direction of Nicholas Harsanyi, director of the Tercentenary Festival of Music.

For its debut concert, the Concert Orchestra will offer C.P.E. Bach's Concerto for Orchestra, Antheil's Serenade for Strings, the Schubert Symphony Number Five and the Mozart Concert, K. 488 with Mr. Janis as soloist.

And then . . . Goodman. The three programs of serious music will be followed next Monday by "An Evening With Benny Goodman." The jazz clarinetist will come back for a second "Evening" on Thursday, July 2.

Next Tuesday, the organist Virgil Fox will join with the Masterworks Chorus under David Randolph to present a group of compositions, including excerpts from Bach's Mass in B Minor.

Compositions by contemporary Princeton composers will be presented next Wednesday, June 24. Composers who will be represented are Milton Babbitt, Edward Cone, James K. Randall, and Roger Sessions.

Young musicians who have won Rotary Scholarships to the Rotary Tercentenary Summer School will show what they can do next Thursday. George Lynn will lead a choral ensemble in Schubert's "Miriam's Song of Triumph," Scott's "The Ballad of the Harp Weaver," Beethoven's "Elegischer Gesang," Lockwood's "Birth of Moses" and Martin's "Calvary."

An orchestra of Rotary winners under Bruce McKinney will play Britten's "Young People's Guide to the Orchestra," a composition by Surina, "Feyra Magica" and the Sibelius "Finlandia."

On Friday, June 26, the Festival Orchestra with Mr. Harsanyi will return, presenting Erica Morini in the Tchaikovsky Violin Concerto. The program will also include Mozart's overture to "The Abduction from the Seraglio," Rossini's "Night Music" and Bela Bartok's "Hungarian Pictures."

Subscription tickets may be reserved by calling Westminster Choir College, 921-9045 between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. daily.

SILENT SOUNDS

That Movie Organ. Elder members of the community who still recall Douglas Fairbanks (Senior) and who recall with nostalgia the swelling organ music that used to introduce "Amos 'n' Andy" will find a haven of memory at the Princeton Playhouse on Monday and Tuesday, June 29 and 30.

At 3 p.m. on those two evenings, Gaylord Carter will give a benefit performance, "Sounds of the Silent Movies." Mr. Carter used to play the organ in movie houses, and he played that "Amos 'n' Andy" theme song for seven years on the radio.

His program includes themes from various movies, a "sing-along," and a narrated demonstration of the use of background music in the silent film era with Fairbanks' "The Mark of Zorro" to illustrate.

Proceeds will benefit the building fund of the Princeton Branch of the Church of Jesus

Bach's Lunch

Pre-concert picnic suppers have been suggested by the New Jersey Tercentenary Festival of Music as a pleasant prelude to the 16 concerts that will be given on the Westminster Choir College campus starting Friday and continuing through July 5.

Evening concerts will begin at 8:30, leaving plenty of time for a leisurely picnic on the park-like choir college campus.

The Festival Pavilion, incidentally, is "all-weather"; the campus as a picnic area is "fair weather only."

Christ of Latter-Day Saints. The congregation, now meeting in the Princeton YMCA, hopes to start its own building in the near future.

OPERA GROUP TO MEET

Public Welcome. A program of scenes by members of the opera workshop will be featured at the annual meeting of the Princeton Opera Association to be held next Friday, June 26, at 8:30 at the First Presbyterian Church.

At the meeting, members will hear a report of last year's activities and will learn what plans are being made for 1964-65. Although the gathering is technically a membership meeting, anyone is invited to attend and, hopefully, to join.

The Association's most recent project was a repeat performance on June 9 at Westminster Choir College of the French opera excerpts that were presented on May 10 in Philadelphia at the Trade and Convention Center. Philadelphia critics received the singers with warmth and enthusiastic praise.

These are the scenes that will be sung at the annual meeting.

Application blanks are available in the offices of most Princeton churches, at Gallery 100 on Nassau Street and at the offices of PAHR, 170 Witherspoon. They must be filled out and returned to Gallery 100 by Thursday, June 25. Volunteers will be accepted on a first-come basis. The program is under the sponsorship of the Social Order Committee of Princeton Friends Meeting.

READY, BOYS?

"Y" Beckons. Swimming on a hot afternoon, trips to the World's Fair on fine days and softball in the warm summer evenings—that's the bait offered this summer by the YMCA to boys, teen-agers and families.

Registration for all classes will be held daily from 9 to 9 at the YMCA building. Saturday, June 27 at 2 p.m. is the registration deadline.

For the toddlers (and girls are welcome here as well as boys), the YMCA will have daily arts, crafts and games, starting next Monday.

Swim instruction will be offered to young men six years of age through high school, with co-ed recreational swimming scheduled daily throughout the summer. Games and movies will follow the swimming classes on Mondays and Fridays.

Varied programs, offering games (chess through softball), field trips, tennis instruction, dancing and "special events," have been planned for boys in the third through eighth grades.

For adults, the YMCA has swimming, softball, tennis, weight-lifting and volleyball, in addition to clubs and classes like the Senior Radio Club, art classes for men and women, duplicate bridge and skin-and-SCUBA diving.

Details of the YMCA program may be found on page 36.

COMMENCEMENT HELD

By Columbus Boychoir. The Columbus Boychoir School has awarded certificates of graduation to 39 boys in the eighth and ninth grades. The Rev. Mr. Charles Marker, pastor of the Methodist Church, gave the commencement address.

Three Princeton area boys graduated from the school: Stephen Bryant, winner of the athletic award, intramural award, Latin Award, best choir award, and instrumental award; John B. Kelsall, Princeton Junction, winner of the best trouper award; and Randall D. York.

The School's Board of Trustees appointed two new members to serve three-year terms. Mrs. Raymond Colcord, Jr., 50 Hodge Road and Frederick Fisher, 15 Palmer Square West, Officers elected to serve for the 1964-65 school year were: William Lanning, president; Mrs. George C. Wintringer, vice-president; Lauren D. Rhine, secretary; Frederick Blachman, treasurer; Mrs. Sidney Blaxill, and Frederick Fisher, assistant treasurers.

GRIFFIN RETIRES

As University Alumni Aide. Donald W. Griffin, general secretary of the University's National Alumni Association, has retired after 30 years of service to the organization. His resignation was announced Sunday at the association's annual June meeting.

Prominent in many phases of University life and alumni activities, and a former president of the Class of 1923, Mr. Griffin was the first chairman of the central committee which helped revise election procedures for undergraduate eating clubs. He also has been Princeton's probably most active "traveling salesman" — with hundreds of road trips to alumni gatherings everywhere.

At outbreak of World War II, he compiled data on the availability of Princeton Alumni for service in the armed forces or in government agencies. He formerly was responsible for editing and publishing the Princeton Alumni Directory.

During World War II, Mr. Griffin was assistant chief of staff, air force South Atlantic wing, and was an original member of the Air Transport Command. At war's end he was chief of the AAF's hospital liaison division, administratively responsible for all sick and wounded air force personnel in the United States.

He retired from the air force in 1960 with the rank of colonel and as a recipient of the Air Force Commendation Medal.

An outstanding athlete, Mr. Griffin played center on the 1922 football "team of destiny." Following graduation he spent two periods of several years duration as football coach of the freshmen and of the 150-lb. team.

Born, as he states it, "in the horse and buggy era," in Lock Haven, Pa., Mr. Griffin owns several horses, and his present favorite pastime is collecting horse-drawn vehicles. He owns, and uses, antique buggies, sleighs, carts — and even a phaeton and a victoria, built surrey with a fringe on top, a about 1885.

PREVIEW OF WALLY BYAM RALLY AT PRINCETON: Last year, the Wally Byam Club Caravanners gathered at Bemidji, Minn. — 2006 Airstream trailers with about 7,000 members. At this year's rally, opening Monday near Blawenburg for two weeks, the number of Airstreams will total about 3,000 and nearly 10,000 people.

Topics Of The Town

CARAVANNERS A-COMIN'
 To Wally Byam Club Rally. Out in a huge field near Blawenburg, hundreds of gleaming travel trailers are already drawn up in the concentric circles where, by Monday, as many as 3,000 trailers and over 9,000 caravanners will be assembled for the seventh international rally. The rally will last until July 6.

According to advance estimates from rally executives, the Princeton Rally may well surpass by 50 percent the largest single previous gathering in the history of American trailering to date—last year's rally at Bemidji, Minn., where 2006 units assembled. In fact, the size of the Princeton round-up of Airstream trailers will be so large that Byam Club officials describe it in two impressive words: awesome and mammoth.

From where are these Byam Club caravanners coming? From just about everywhere. From all the highways and byways in the country.

The Northern California unit, for example, left Lodi, Calif., on May 18 on the first leg of its journey. Other chapters from California left on June 1 from Bakersfield. Units from the Carolinas and from Canada are on their way.

"Wonderful Adventure." The pleasure and excitement with which the caravanners are looking forward to the rally here is illustrated by a letter written by one of them while on the road from a far distant point. To quote:

"We are embarking on a wonderful adventure. Our family of four is now on its way to the big International Rally at Princeton, and everyone is terribly excited about going. . . We know what is in store for us, and we are counting the days. . . Our only regret is that we had to wait until we were practically ready to retire to make the finest investment of our lives. . . So, Princeton, here we come! Filled with anticipation—and also anxious to do our part to make this the greatest international rally of all."

Wally Byam Caravanners clearly qualify as the aristocracy of trailerdom. Members, some of them comfortably retired, others simply dedicated vacationers via the Airstream trailers, are fiercely proud and loyal members of the Byam Club.

To them, voyaging in their Airstreams is much more than just a hobby or one way of really seeing the country (and the world, for a 'Round-the-World Tour is now traversing India and enjoying the hospitality of maharajas and kings). Trips and rallies and making a home in their special trailers is, perhaps briefly but clearly, a "way of life."

Entertainment Galore. Nobody gets bored at a Wally Byam Rally. The program, starting at 9 a.m. on Monday with Craft Shop and a square dance class for beginners, includes just about every recreational and cultural activity possible—most of it to be held at the rally site, a completely equipped, wholly self-sufficient private city on wheels.

Among the other diversions are bridge and golf tournaments, movies, amateur entertainment hours, style shows, reunion luncheons and photography contests. Trips to the World's Fair, tours of Princeton University, sightseeing excursions to Philadelphia and other off-site events are also on the schedule, as is a gigantic rally banquet in the University gymnasium on July 2.

The planning, the logistics and the innumerable arrangements required for such a rally are enough to make an Army Quartermaster Corps general blanch. But, to members of the Wally Byam Club, it's all part of the fun, part of the "way of life" they love.

... AND DANCING, TOO
 At Hopewell Celebration. In honor of New Jersey's 300th birthday, Hopewell Township will hold a free 12-hour celebration this Saturday. And just because two celebrations are better than one, Township residents will also dedicate their new municipal building.

The festivities will be held on the grounds next to the new municipal hall at the corner of Scotch Road and the Pennington-Washington Crossing Road. Exhibits of handicraft and art, the work of Township 4-H clubs and Girl Scouts, and displays from Western Electric and New Jersey Bell Telephone will all be on view in a giant circus tent, starting at 12 noon.

Walter D. Coughle, Chancellor of the John Hart Chapter Sons of the American Revolution, will dedicate the new hall at 1:15. At 3:15, a mural painted by John Hankinson of Pennington, will be unveiled. The mural, depicting scenes from Hopewell Township's history, will decorate the wall to the right of the entrance to the building.

At 4:15, Paul Van Wegen will present a reproduction of the original charter of Hopewell Township. Between presentations, there will be music by the Comancheros, the band of American Legion Pennington Post No. 413.

Children will have a chance to play games and go on various rides and watch the film, "This is New Jersey." The Hopewell Valley Chorus will sing at 7 p.m., and dancing will begin at 9 on the new parking lot. Lights out at midnight.

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

June 18, 1959. The annual open season for commencement and commencement speakers had produced some interesting statistics from Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom, who had delivered the graduation address at the Hun School five years ago. As a preface to his talk, Dr. Engstrom had announced that more than 30,000 commencement speeches would be delivered in this country during the month—and that it would take one speaker a year and a half, speaking night and day, to get through the combined oratorical advice to 1959 graduates.

The audience reportedly was a little aghast at the mere thought of all this academic filibustering. But Dr. Engstrom had gone on to pack an effective message in a very short time during this one of the more than 30,000.

Elsewhere on the Princeton education map, the Township Board of Education had announced the appointment of principals for the then unfinished Riverside and Johnson Park Schools. Mrs. Alice Packard, first-grade teacher at Valley Road, had been named principal of Riverside and Earl W. Hobbs had been chosen to head Johnson Park.

One question which was worrying both the new principals and the board: Would the schools be open for classes that September? As it turned out, a steel strike slowed the construction program to a slow walk—but emergency classrooms were set up until the two buildings were finished in January of the following year.

An unscheduled blackout of some 1,200 homes in the Princeton area five years ago this week had lasted for more than an hour and a half and had sent occupants groping for flashlights and candles. The damage had been caused not by lightning, of which there had been a plenty, but by wires downed by countless falling branches blown loose by gale force winds.

TEN YEARS AGO

June 17, 1954. The Princeton community was soon to find itself with two new police chiefs ten years ago as both Chief Gustave Eisenmann and Chief Edward W. Mahan approached the end of their service as heads of Township and Borough police. Named to succeed Mr. Eisenmann was Lieutenant James Campbell Jr., who continues in the post in 1964, while Lieutenant Raymond Mondone, now retired, would take over from Chief Mahan.

On the drawing boards in June 1954 was a proposed YM-YWCA building for the corner of Bayard Lane and Avalon Place. A fund-raising campaign for $750,000 to build and equip the new structure was scheduled for the following spring.

Elaborate as the plans may have seemed ten years ago, the subsequent success of the installation has proved their merit. Funds for the swimming pool were raised in a campaign subsequent to the first under the effective slogan of "Let's finish the job."

Accuracy to within a thousandth of one percent had won a $1,000 prize in a "pill-guessing" contest for the benefit of the hospital. The unusually close estimate of 15.372, just 15 higher than the actual count, had been made by Albert Westfeld, research director at Opinion Research Corp., who clearly must have put his expert knowledge of sampling to good use in arriving at the number.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

June 16, 1949. On Saturday morning the preceding weekend, two Rembrandt etchings and a Degas pencil drawing had been taken from an exhibition hung in the Princeton Art Museum on the campus. Valued at a total of $11,800, they were part of the McVitty enjoy first-rate works of art as a result of a gift made to the schools by the Valley Road-Community Park PTA.

The parent-teacher association has given 24 reproductions and 10 interchangeable frames to the two schools to form the basis of a file which will be used in the enrichment program. The reproductions represent a variety of artists, themes and techniques.

All the pictures were mounted on cardboard pieces of equal size and glazed for protection. Gallery 100 mounted the reproductions, assisted in the design of the frames and constructed them for the PTA.

Members of the Valley Road-Community Park PTA Art Committee are Mrs. Marvin Blumenthal, Mrs. Harvey Cahn, Mrs. Morton Darrow, Mrs. Henry Freedman and Mrs. E. O. Johnson.

BLOOD URGENTLY NEEDED
By Hospital. The first week in June made history for the Princeton Blood Donor Service.

In the first five days of June, the emergency needs of Princeton Hospital patients required the blood of 89 donors (in the entire month of May, the service called on only 151 donors.)

Two Seminary students, in line for the baccalaureate service, responded immediately when a Red Cross worker found them in line and asked for their help.

A businessman found someone to "mind the store" so that he could give blood. A student, working as a painter for the summer, climbed down from his ladder and came running. A banker cancelled his next appointment to get to the hospital on time.

Emergency calls like these were made day and night during the five-day period to keep the free blood flowing for three hospital patients who needed transfusions, almost around-the-clock. The Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross and Princeton Hospital co-sponsor the blood donor service.

Sign Up Now. Potential donors are now at a dangerously low ebb, according to Mrs. Alan Tredennick, chairman of the program. "Unless there is response from the Princeton community to replenish these files with new volunteer donors, another emergency situation like this last one, could be disastrous," Mrs. Tredennick said.

Since January, 1964, the Red Cross has responded to 77 emergency calls during the night and on weekends, in addition to the regular daily scheduling of donors. A total of 764 blood donations have been made this year through the service.

Most of these 764 donors responded to a brief telephone call from the Red Cross, but it was not always that simple. One of the donors sought by the Red Cross this June was a university student who had left Princeton for the summer. The Red Cross worker, who knew he lived nearby, collection, and their disappearance was the first theft in the long history of the museum. They've never been found.

Also found missing fifteen years ago were 600 pounds of lead, some of it radio-active, from Palmer Physical Laboratory. In one of the bars was a "head" of cobalt, capable of inflicting severe burns on anyone who came within five feet of it.

After an extensive search with Geiger counters both in Princeton and Trenton and with the FBI joining University proctors, police and scientists in the hunt, a 24-hour interview with the law had brought confessions from three men — two of them employed at the laboratory. They had led police to the spot where they had hidden the bars near Trenton, and a Geiger counter had sniffed out the location of the cobalt, found near the lead.

NEW PATHS AHEAD

Four Teachers Retire. Two men and two women will close their desks in the Borough schools this week for the last time. They all have plans for the years ahead.

Retiring are Mrs. Charlie Potter, kindergarten teacher since 1925; Miss Ruth A. Huzzard, who has combined English classes with direction of high school publications since 1943; Frederic S. Coffman, who joined the school system in 1930 as a high school mathematics teacher, and John A. Stewart, science teacher since 1929.

They have taught Princeton's young people for a combined 129 years, often two generations of the same families. In all, they have been teachers for 156 years, counting other schools.

"Wonders Of Education."

The Borough Board of Education paid tribute to the retirees at its recent meeting. The Board said in gratitude to Mrs. Potter, "during her long and faithful service, she introduced hundreds of boys and girls to the wonders of formal education. Her kindness, gentility and scholarly influence made a lasting impression on all her young charges and prepared them for the rigorous training to follow."

Mrs. Potter, a 1919 graduate of the high school, received a diploma from Trenton Normal School in 1921. She taught in Freehold and Salem before embarking on her 39-year career as a Princeton kindergarten teacher.

Miss Huzzard served on the faculties of Dover (Del.) High School, and at Cape May and Collingswood before coming to Princeton. For 21 years, she guided Princeton High School students through 273 issues of the "Tower." In 1947, she established the yearbook, the "Prince," and later insured "The Ivy," which publishes yearly the best creative writing at the school.

The Board commended her on her "excellent teaching, her selfless service, and her insistence on high ethical and academic standards." She is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Class of 1925, and received her master's degree from Middlebury College.

Mathematician Coffman became director of guidance at the high school in 1943. Three years later he added the role of dean of boys. In 1960, he combined his interests as coordinator of statistical information and research for the school. "His 34 years," the Board said in appreciation, "were marked by a constant concern for the educational welfare of the students and a sympathetic understanding of their varied problems."

A native of Hagerstown, Md., Mr. Coffman graduated from Juniata College in 1925, and received his arts master's degree in 1931 from the University of Pennsylvania.

"Under his direction," the Board said of Mr. Stewart, "the science department has kept pace with the rapidly evolving changes in the world of science. His dedicated service to our educational system has aided in bringing distinction to the high school, and is a source of great satisfaction to us all."

Mr. Stewart, a graduate of Womser College, Class of 1923, has behind him graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh and at Rutgers. He has been head of the science department continuously since 1929 except for three years in the Navy during World War II. Known as "The Admiral" to his students, he retired a lieutenant commander, with five medals for special service in his pocket.

The Years Ahead. With a teacher's sure sense of direction, they all have planned ahead. Mrs. Potter and her husband are establishing a camp in the hills near their home in Skillman. A Y group will be there this summer. Mr. Stewart plans to teach for a year or more at an Armed Forces department school at Bremerhaven, Germany.

Miss Huzzard will return to her native Spring City, Pa., where she plans to serve as editor of a church newspaper and take a part-time job on the local weekly. She will travel to England and the continent next fall or spring. And Mr. Coffman, whose hobby is astronomy, will work at it full time. He intends, among other projects, to get a closer look at the stars from the Southern Hemisphere.

All in all, the grass won't grow under their feet.

AND ICE CREAM TOO?

Sure! Strawberries, ice-cream, cake, coffee and punch will be served by the Guild of the Rocky Hill Reformed Church at the annual Strawberry Festival this Saturday. Serving will start at 5:30 and end at 8:30 p.m. The donation is 60¢ for adults and 40¢ for children. Mrs. Hazel Robbins and Mrs. Frances Shlapfer are co-chairmen.

... AFTER 36 YEARS

Dr. McPhee to Retire. On June 30, Dr. Harry B. McPhee will retire after 36 years as a member of Princeton University's medical staff. A nationally-known authority on student health, Dr. McPhee has been since 1933 the University's football team physician.

It was in this role, perhaps more than in any other, that he distinguished himself. During his more than 30 years association with University football teams and players, he specialized in the prevention and treatment of athletic injuries—and his records of them, their incidence, trends and relation-

In 1940, for example, Dr. McPhee (known to his associates as Mickey) undertook a careful survey of the several pounds of football gear worn by each player. Over a five-week period, he tested equipment under scrimmage conditions, and only those items adjudged acceptable after this intensive testing were used.

The results were startling. That fall, Princeton's football injuries fell some 30 percent which, according to Dr. McPhee, was the greatest single reduction in the incidence of injuries during his tenure here.

Dr. McPhee was instrumental in bringing the plastic helmet to Princeton football just after World War II. Developed by the army, it provided protection to the entire head, something which the old leather helmet failed to do.

About spring practice, Dr. McPhee is in accord with the coaches: "We miss spring practice every bit as much as the coaches because it was during that time that we were able to test equipment—such experimentation isn't possible during the season."

Other results of Dr. McPhee's inventiveness which have gained national use in football are the special neck guard and the now omnipresent face guard. Both devices were worked out by Dr. McPhee and Head Trainer Eddie Zandrini.

A frequent choice as an Olympic team physician, Dr. McPhee will go to Tokyo this summer to serve in the same capacity. After that, he says, "If there is any way I can help out I'll be only too glad to do it."

Said Princeton's football coach Richard W. Colman of Dr. McPhee's retirement: "Through his constant improvement of equipment, his statistical studies of injuries and his unfailing interest in the welfare of the players, Mickey McPhee has contributed tremendously to the morale of all the Princeton squads he had handled. In addition, he has been a close friend to coaches, trainers and players for all his 31 years as football team physician."

Coach Colman's sentiments are endorsed by literally thousands of Princeton football players who are proud to be numbered among Dr. McPhee's "patients."

"Best Of The Fair." A statewide contest to find the best picture taken at the World's Fair has been announced by Bamberger's. Prizes will be awarded each month, June through September.

Contestants may enter one 5x7 enlargement, black-and-

The camp will open June 29. Presently, the entire camp is filled to 85 percent of capacity.

PLAN AHEAD

For The Country Fair. The annual Country Fair at Lawrenceville Elementary School is set for Saturday, October 3. Mrs. A. C. Reeves Hicks and Mrs. Samuel S. Shapiro are coordinators.

PTA members on the planning committee are Mrs. William Kessler and Mrs. William Yeoman, booths; Mrs. Parker Striffler and Mrs. John Maple, food; Mrs. G. Donald Munger and Mrs. John Walther, midway; Mrs. C. G. Brecht, and Mrs. Lawrence L. Hlavacek, publicity; Mrs. John S. Kramer, public relations; Mrs. Byron Jones, planning and Robert B. FIRST IN 14 YEARS

As Tigers Blank Yale. The reunion crowd of 5,000 present for the Yale-Princeton baseball game Saturday saw an achievement unduplicated thus only by the Tigers since 1950. The 3-0 shutout of Yale was the first whitewash credited to a Princeton pitcher in the commencement game in 14 years.

As was the case last weekend, it was a sophomore who blanked the Elis almost a decade and a half ago. Harry Brightman, one of the top left-handers in Princeton history who later pitched a no-hitter against Fordham, hurled the Tigers to an 11-0 triumph in June of that year.

On Saturday, it was another promising southpaw, Tom Scott, who was in complete control. Given three runs in the first inning, he made the lead stand up in authoritative fashion, never once allowing a runner beyond second base.

Scott's control was outstanding as he walked two, fanned five and saw only half a dozen balls hit solidly to the outfield. Generally able to bring his pitches in low, he forced the Elis to hit into three double plays, clynaxed by the game-ender that saw the remaining at Clarke Field away wondering why Princeton baseball was in a season-long slump.

Combined Records Poor. Fortunately from the spectators' viewpoint, the afternoon was productive of good college baseball a number of solid, timely hits by Princeton no costly errors by either team and several good defensive plays on both sides. After the first two innings required nearly an hour to play, the pace quickened and the entire game was finished in under two and a half hours.

It is doubtful, however, if Yale and Princeton have ever played a commencement game here when both teams have had such miserable seasons. The Elis were last in the Eastern League, the Tigers tied for eighth. Princeton went into the game with a 7-14-1 mark; Yale, 6-14-1, so that of the 43 games they had played, they had won only 13 between them.

The fact remains that Scott did all that could be asked of him as he brought the Tigers even with their arch rivals on the season and raised his personal records to 5-3. Odds are he will be given the starting assignment when the two teams meet at New Haven in the precedent-shattering game that has been scheduled for Sunday.

Princeton jammed its three runs across in the first inning, the last two with two away. Captain Wally Chile opened the spree with a one-out single to right center, and when catcher Jody Johnson observed the hit-and-run play with a triple to the same sector, the Tigers had the only run they needed.

After Al Genchi fanned, Jack Singer hit the first of his two solid doubles to score Johnson and then rode home himself on a single by Ron Landeck. The Tigers wasted a few opportunities thereafter, three times putting the lead batter on second but failing to bring him around. The way Scott was moving down the Elis — at one time ten in a row — it mattered little. The schedule quirk that sends Princeton to New Haven for Yale's reunions as late as June 21 will not be repeated, Harvard, the Elis' usual opponent, will be back in the act in 1965.

REGATTA AT SYRACUSE

Tigers Ever Hopeful. A Princeton crew whose fortunes have been following a downward trend since an unbeaten April will row this weekend in the national intercollegiate regatta at Syracuse. With the distance set at 2000 meters to serve as an accurate test of Olympic potential, the 14 participating colleges will row heats on Friday and finals on Saturday.

It was in March that talk of Tokyo began to be heard around the Carnegie Lake bathhouse, and everything that happened in April fanned the flame of hope. The Tigers opened with a victory over Rutgers followed with a triumph over well regarded Navy and then defeated Columbia and Pennsylvania to win the Childs Cup for the first time in seven years.

Thereafter, however, reality became more of a nightmare each weekend. The Tigers lost to Harvard by well over three lengths, finished third behind Yale and Cornell here and then failed to qualify for the six-boat final over the 2000-meter distance in the Eastern Spring Championships at Worcester.

While Yale and Harvard will not be at Syracuse, three good western crews will. At the World's Fair next month, they'll all enter the Olympic trials . . . and no one around here is currently talking much about Tokyo any more.

Second Place Essential. In order to qualify for the finals on Lake Onondaga this weekend, Princeton must finish at least as high as second in the four-boat heat in which it has been drawn. It will be no easy task.

Opposing the Tigers will be Wisconsin — seeded third in the drawings behind Cornell and California — as well as Washington and Brown. The Huskies are always a dangerous contender, while Brown on a good day could give Princeton a stiff battle, despite its lack of ranking as an eastern power.

Sunday is Father's Day . . . So, let us hoist a glass of COUSINS EXCLUSIVE wine to the hero who, year in and year out, acts both as viand provider and guardian of the family cave.

After all, he is a pretty important member of the tribe. Geneticists have even agreed that, without fathers, our chances of being born would be unlikely at best.

One of the happiest ways to show your awareness of THE man on Father's Day is to please him with a bottle or so of our 700-plus varieties of fine wines. Better by far, we submit, than a sunset-hued necktie or a pair of outsize ankle-droopers.

Because you, too, will enjoy the jug of wine.

Football Players Depart. The end of the academic year is inventory-time for college football coaches, and the awarding of diplomas this week has removed a number of key players from the Princeton team which last fall tied Dartmouth for Ivy League honors. Eleven of those who will not be back next season are seniors who received degrees on Tuesday. Two others have departed for disciplinary reasons.

Graduation has taken one or more players from every position in the line, leaving the coaching staff with a clear-cut rebuilding problem. Of the nine linemen who will be unavailable next fall, five were starters.

A quartet of backs picked up diplomas on Tuesday. Of the backfield which started against Dartmouth in the final game of the season, all but Cosmo Iacavazzi were seniors.

Four Ends Missing. End coach Bob Casciola has lost a starter in Bill Howard, a fine two-way player whose good hands and 6-4 height made him a frequent target as a pass receiver. Bob Keyes and John Clarkson are other senior lettermen who graduated. Keyes was Howard's immediate replacement, leaving a sizeable gap at left end. In addition, Bill Robinson, who earned his letter as a sophomore in 1962, is out of the picture. He has been suspended for a year following disciplinary action.

Bill Guedel, an All-Ivy choice as a tackle, is a member of the Class of 1964. Ineligible as a sophomore, he came along quickly the following season and was undoubtedly the outstanding lineman on the team last fall. The other tackle to graduate was Ed Costello, a standout in his first two seasons who saw very little action in 1963 when he was sidelined by an injury.

Both starting guards are out of the picture — Al Swenson via a diploma and Junior Ron Bonomo through disciplinary action. The latter had been heavily counted on in his senior year.

Bill Crano, used primarily on offense as a center, is the ninth lineman now out of the picture. It is a rarity when one or more players from every position up front becomes unavailable the same year, and the loss of Howard, Guedel, Bonomo, Crano and Swenson sweeps five side-by-side starters off the depth chart.

AMONG THE MISSING: Pete Porietis, three-year letterman at tailback, is among the 13 football players who have concluded their careers at Princeton.

In the backfield, the starting quarterback; a wingback who won all-Ivy honors, and two tailbacks who alternated in the starting lineup are all members of the Class of 1964. Here again, the rebuilding job will be considerable.

Dick Springs was the Tigers' regular in the quarterback slot for the last two seasons after understudying John Henrich as a sophomore. He ran the team well and handled his constant blocking assignments crisply.

Jim Rockenbach, one of the two or three best wingbacks to play for Princeton in the post-war era, leaves the biggest hole in the backfield and — with the exception of Guedel — the biggest hole anywhere. A fine runner who improvised beautifully as the occasion demanded, he was also a constant stickout on defense.

Pete Porietis, who had the starting job won at tailback when the season began but was later sidelined by injuries, is one of the tailbacks who graduated Tuesday. Gone with him is Hugh MacMillan, fastest man on the squad, who came along as the season progressed to hold down the regular job at tailback.

MacMillan and Rockenbach were co-winners Monday of the Roper Trophy for "high scholastic rank, outstanding qualities of sportsmanship and general proficiency in athletics." MacMillan was a sprinter on the track team; Rockenbach, who shared the Poe Cup last fall with Guedel, was a three-year letterman in wrestling.

Elsewhere in the League. Based on losses through graduation, Princeton stands about in the middle among the eight members of the Ivy League. The biggest swath cut by the awarding of diplomas this month is at Hanover and Cambridge: Dartmouth and Harvard both lose 18 members of the Class of 1964.

Pennsylvania, which can ill afford any departures in view of its perennial troubles, will find 16 seniors missing when it reports for pre-season practice next September. Yale, the early-line co-favorite with Princeton for the 1964 title, is hit equally as hard as the Tigers, losing 13.

Cornell had a dozen seniors last fall, although the graduation of quarterback Gary Wood pins the greatest single loss on the Ithacans. Two teams which rarely finish in first division will suffer the lightest losses of all. Columbia must replace only eight seniors and Brown, looking forward to the upcoming season with considerable optimism, has only six departures.

Expectations are that the six-boat final will consist of Cornell, California, M.I.T., Navy, Wisconsin and either Washington or Princeton. The first two are rated about even to win, with perhaps a shade to Cornell.

PRINCETON BANK GROWS

... And Grows, and Grows. At a special press meeting on Tuesday, President William R. Cosby and Board Chairman George R. Cook III announced that, effective July 1, the interest rate on savings accounts at the Princeton Bank & Trust Co. would jump to 3½ percent per annum. The increase can now be made, Mr. Cosby stated, because "the soundness of our investments clearly justifies it. The rate increase is just one more example of our bank's dedicated objective of giving the best possible service to the community."

"Naturally, we have the utmost confidence in the sound future growth of the area," Mr. Cosby continued, "and that's why we continue to plan banking expansion and refinement of our office procedures." As illustration of the Princeton Bank's growth, Mr. Cosby and Mr. Cook stated that, in 1897 when the present building was opened, "net resources were $451,000. Today, they are about $50,000,000."

Also, Mr. Cook said, only the first floor of the building was used by the bank at first. "The second and third floors were rented out as apartments and, later, as offices," he continued. "Now both floors and part of the adjoining building are being used by the bank—and we're still short of space, with no room here for expansion."

The space shortage, however, will soon be as much a thing of the past as the half-eagle gold piece, according to the Princeton Bank's top officers. For, on Labor Day weekend, the institution will move into its commodious new offices at 70 Nassau, the building at the east entrance to Palmer Square.

The main banking floor at 70 Nassau will open from a lobby fronting on Nassau Street. Among the installations there will be seven teller's windows (the "open" type of design, not the barred, squinted cage variety), an additional window for notes and other transactions and a platform with accommodations for seven of the bank's officers.

In the lobby there will be two additional teller's windows—"speed" windows for peak banking hours. The second floor at 70 Nassau will house the trust division, auto loan department and the direct installment loan section.

The basement of the new building will contain the banks vault and safe deposit boxes. And, on the subject of safe deposit boxes, Messrs. Cosby and Cook have this to say: "Some of our customers apparently think that when we move the bank that they will have to clear out their present boxes, carry the contents down Nassau to the new building and put them in a new box."

"It doesn't work this way. Safe deposit boxes are installed in 'nests'—a group of boxes in each unit. These nests will be moved intact, under complete security, so that no change in individual boxes will be necessary."

NASSAU FUND BOARD OF DIRECTORS: Members of the Board of Directors of the Nassau Fund, whose net assets have increased 17% in the past year, are, first row from left: G. Dykeman Sterling, Edward Sampson, Harland W. Hoisington, president, Hugh D. Wise Jr. and Robert G. McAllen. Second row, from left: Leighton H. Laughlin, Harland W. Hoisington Jr., Arthur P. Morgan, Jay D. Cook, John H. Wallace Jr. and Arthur O. Chate Jr. (Staff Photo)

With Labor Day weekend set as the time for transferring the Princeton Bank from its 68-year-old home to its brand new one, everything down to the last time will be in place and ready for business on the morning of September 8.

NASSAU FUND GROWS

Net Assets Increase 17%. The Nassau Fund, established in February, 1957, has had a steady growth since then. Its directors have revealed that if those who joined the Fund in 1958 had reinvested all dividends, their investment would have almost doubled in value by the end of 1963.

This month, the Fund's Board of Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 10¢ per share, the 25th consecutive quarterly dividend paid by the Fund since its inception. Harland W. Hoisington, president and director, pointed out that after payment of this dividend, the net assets of the Fund had increased 17% since last June and now totalled $5,483,000.

FULMER & BOWERS CITED

For Architectural Design. The work of architects Fulmer & Bowers of 341 Nassau Street has been awarded a design citation by the American Institute of Architects.

Fulmer & Bowers shared in the award given Constitution Plaza in Hartford, Conn., for its design of Broadcase House. Constitution Plaza was one of 16 projects across the nation selected from 439 entries in the annual architectural design competition.

GRAFTEK TO DOUGHERTY

For Marketing, PR Services. Graftek, Inc., Princeton graphic data processing firm, has appointed Dougherty Associates, 195 Nassau Street, to provide marketing and public relations functions. Graftek, its main office at 20 Nassau Street, supplies industry and government with problem-solving information by the use of a recently developed electronic computer system.

Graftek also serves oil and gas companies, public utilities, and federal, state and community planning commissions and highway departments. Its president is Sumner B. Irish, faculty member at Princeton University for 17 years and a specialist in photogrammetry and cartography.

Mr. Irish developed Graftek's method for automating business and technical operations involved in mapping. Graftek translates electronically tabular data into graphic formats, and vice versa.

Over age 50?
How about YOUR life insurance.

The 50's bring new dimensions to life and to a man's need for life insurance. The children have grown up, retirement is not far away and the tax people are getting interested in your estate.

You need a lifetime income for your wife—a requirement that is emphasized by the life expectancy tables and the three out of five chance that wives will outlive their husbands.

A surprising number of people have taxable estates these days, thanks to inflated values. Estate taxes could be a thorny problem for your heirs and may require the sale of irreplaceable assets.

Age 65 for most men brings retirement—years that can be a rich and satisfying experience if you have enough income.

The ideal solution to all these problems is Life Insurance, guaranteeing immediate cash or lifetime income depending on the need. Talk to the Man from Manufacturers. You'll find him especially helpful in measuring your present insurance against these "new dimensions" after 50.

"What Contribution Will You Make?"

The ideals of justice and freedom and human dignity are much more than empty phrases, President Robert F. Cochen told the Princeton Class of 1964 in his baccalaureate address Sunday in the University Chapel.

"The question is, 'What contribution will you make to the quality of the lives you touch?'"

"In today's world," he said, "where more than ever men must work together as well as on their own, the need is large for those who will act, who will have the courage and the energy to play a conscious part in the shaping of our society and the raising of its tone and style."

"If any of us rest cautiously content in our own vocations and callings, carefully resisting all appeals to lend a hand when hands are needed for such purposes, we shall assuredly contribute to the stagnation and emptiness of life."

"The mind and the heart and the strength in each of you, as nourished by this University, can help to give clearer sight, finer goals, firmer courage, and a better hope to all who come within your range. Thus, the burden of other people's business, your education lays on you."

Obituaries

Dr. Robert N. Pease of 35 Cedar Lane, a former chairman of the Department of Chemistry at Princeton University and an authority in the field of combustion and chemical kinetics, died of a heart attack June 15 in his laboratory. Since his retirement last July 1 at the mandatory age of 68, he had worked there engaged in further studies of combustion processes and catalysis.

Born in Burlington, Vt. in 1895, Dr. Pease received his B.S. degree from the University of Vermont in 1916 and his Ph.D. from Princeton five years later. He served in World War I during the interval.

He returned to Princeton in 1926 following four years on the faculty of the University of Virginia. At Princeton, he was associated with the first concerted investigation of the composition of petroleum and the properties of its component parts with particular emphasis on characteristics of combustion. He continued his investigations of fundamental combustion processes in relation to jet propulsion engines under a U. S. Navy contract, and received a certificate of appreciation from the Navy.

In both World Wars, he was assigned to chemical warfare projects. In World War I, he served as a second lieutenant in the Gas Investigations Section of the Chemical Warfare Service and in World War II as director of a national Research Council project investigating defensive measures against poison gas.

Promoted to the rank of professor in 1947, Dr. Pease was departmental chairman from 1954-58. He was a member of the American Chemical Society, Sigma Xi, and a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He is survived by his wife, the former Margaret S. Perkins; a son Clement F. of Berkeley Heights; four sisters, Mrs. Levi T. Smith of Burlington, Vt., Miss Sybil P. Pease and Mrs. Philip Carleton of Charlotte, Vt. and Mrs. Lawrence C. Wroth of Providence; a brother, Ferdinand H. Pease of Pelham, N.Y., and two grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at 2 this Thursday in the Marquand Transsept of the Princeton University Chapel.

Mrs. Frances Cocks Fenn, of 4 Ober Road, wife of William P. Fenn, General Secretary of the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia, died June 14 at Princeton Hospital. A graduate of Berea College in Kentucky and holder of an M.A. degree from the University of Colorado, Mrs. Fenn taught English at Berea College until her marriage in 1929. In 1932 under the auspices of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., she and her husband went to China, where Dr. Fenn was a Professor of English at the University of Nanking.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

All rights reserved W. T. Dickinson & Co., Inc., New York

POLAR BEAR IN THE BATHROOM!

"Unless you're a polar bear there are probably days even in summer when the bathroom floor feels too cold to your toes." But not in our house. We're electrical."

This scrawl from a seven-year old really tells more than it says.

"We're electrical!"

And he knows the difference. It takes no labor at all to get the bathroom in an electrically-heated house out of the polar bear class whatever the turn or whim of the year according to the local expert who was on the receiving end of Jimmy's note.

It is just a snap of the switch on the right equipment . . . and the bathroom is toasty in no time.

Says the authority: "Jimmy learned the 'cold toes' hazard in his old house. The 'new' electrical house has been home for a year now, but to Mom and Pop — just as to Jimmy — it has new toy joy, and it's not the kind that wears off. It gets better."

"Lucky Jim. He's doing his growing up in a world of tomorrow home today. But he's the only one who's figured out comfort in terms of polar bears. His mother, who insisted on electricity for heating, and his father who's paying for it, are both pretty pleased with their pet gains too."

"For both her and him it means less work. Electrically heated houses are traditionally soundly built, stay much cleaner. Then there's no maintenance nuisance, no storage mess."

"It's good living, easy living (and life is hard enough without fighting a house, too!) and on top of that it's economically sound."

MAYBE A MANSION FOR TWO?

It maybe in Newport, or New Jersey, or Connecticut . . . but more and more couples with more taste and imagination than money are saving glided age showplaces from rack and ruin, transforming maybe a section or maybe a wing at a time.

Newly-marrieds with an 18-room "find" report that the large hall and five east rooms make a lavish apartment, plus real estate office space, thanks to the installation of electrical heating.

You know," says the head of the house, "we're much better off, for our taste needs refurbishing the tarnished glory our own way. You see, the house was built to last. It's well worth the new wiring and heating system."

STANDARDS EXPLAINED

All Weather Comfort Standard" is a term the electrical heating industry has agreed on to assure maximum home owner benefits from their heating systems.

In addition to guaranteeing the quality of the equipment they manufacture, the leading companies and distributors stress good insulation practices which it is explained:

lower the first cost of heating and cooling equipment lower the operating costs for heating and cooling provide greater comfort during heating and cooling seasons.

Leaflets with specific recommendations for insulation can be obtained without cost from utility companies.

UP-DATE... ANTIQUE HEATING NOW!

This elegant relic reminds us of by-gone days. Be elegant, better your days ahead with total electric home heating.

QUESTION BOX

Q. What is the best time of the year to change over to an electrical system?

A. Ideally, one would think of summer. If you and your contractor can arrange it, fine.

However, unless some unusual problem has to be surmounted to upgrade the structure almost any time of year is all right. Our own work was done in December, with no hardship other than shifting furniture around.

Q. How do budget payment plans work regarding electrical heating?

A. A popular one provided by some utility companies is the ten-payment plan. Your usage of electricity (for everything, lighting, freezer, washer, etc.) . . . not just the heating) is estimated in advance from September to June.

Thus, though you use "a different amount of electricity every month, you make the same payment in each of these months."

If you want to keep track of usage against estimate, it's easy because the cost of the electricity actually used each month is noted on bills you receive from September to June.

Then, in June, your utility company compares actual cost of electricity used with the total payments made.

Says a utility company explanatory folder: "If the actual cost is less than the estimated cost, the difference will appear on your July bill."

Under the 10-payment plan you are billed in July and August for the electricity you actually use during those months.

If You Are Planning To Build, Buy or Remodel Call Any One Of The Contractors Listed Below. He'll Give You All The Facts On Total Electric Home Heating.

LOST OR STRAYED PETS

The best way to make sure of getting your dog back if it strays or is lost, is to keep an identification tag on its collar at all times. Besides the license required by law, a tag with name, address and telephone number will help the police return the dog quickly. Report all lost animals to Mrs. Graves (921-6122), Director of Lost, Found and
Adoption Services of the Princeton
Small Animal Rescue League.

When you buy a new car, how big a fish are you to the people you bought it from?

You are, if you buy from so-called volume car dealers. When it comes to service, you're one of thousands — a very small fish indeed.

The pond is smaller at Turney Motors. We may not sell as many new cars as some but we take extra special care of those who do buy from us.

Talk with those who have bought on the basis of price alone. Then come to see us. You'll be surprised to find our price is often the same or less . . . and our service is always better and more convenient, too. Think it over.

3 BEAUTIFUL ACRES... here, is genuine seclusion in your own woods, yet this charming cape cod is only minutes from town. Living room with fireplace, separate dining room, a huge (20x30) pine-paneled room for the grand piano, 3 bedrooms and a modern bath. This exquisite little place, on what is, no doubt, Princeton's most famous road, should be seen before you decide that you have seen everything. $42,500

WESTERN SECTION... on two beautiful acres off the main highway. And now that the splendor of its shade trees arching over this lovely home provides the perfect background for its professional landscaping of laurel, rhododendrons and andromeda, you will see why this is, perhaps, our favorite dwelling. 3 bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, a beautiful family room which could be another bedroom. Use of swimming pool and tennis courts. However, none of these mere facts can convey the aura of sheer beauty that makes this home so precious. $66,500

EXCLUSIVELY OURS
 We believe in providing service above and beyond our regular duties as realtors when we contract for an exclusive listing. In order to be able to perform that service well, we do not go after any and every house just to add quantity to our exclusive supply. Therefore, when we described a house as "EXCLUSIVELY OURS", you can be sure there is a good reason for it. The following are listed with briefly, the reason for their "particularity."
 a) 3 bedroom, 2 bath ranch. Bread-ripple Drive. Need "manicure & make-up" but price in area is still very good. $27,500
 b) 2 bedroom, 1 1/2 bath two-story. Convenient Twp. Area. Secluded fenced lot. Condition eliminates need for money beyond asking price. $28,500
 c) 3 bedroom, 2 bath more attractive than average ranch with contemporary atmosphere. Good lake area location. $38,500
 d) 2 bedroom plus den, 2 bath masonry ranch. Unique wood, 2 1/2 acre setting close to town, house appeal, construction, area make expansion highly worthwhile. Perfect, however, as is. $41,500
 e) 11 room, 3 1/2 bath Colonial town house. New decoration, old appeal. Space and nice West End location in good combination at $38,900. (Slightly less might take it)
